

Linking mosquito trap data with differential equation models - an update with machine learning technology

Xi Huo

University of Miami, USA

In this talk, I will present our recent approach of combining differential equation models and machine learning techniques to understand, analyze, and forecast the mosquito population dynamics in Miami-Dade County.

In Special Session 54 on Emergence, Spread, and Control of Mosquito-borne Diseases: Insights from Mathematical Modeling at the Mathematical Congress of the Americas 2025.